ROME, February 15.—Prince George of Serbia, who has been in Italy recovering from wounds that have obliged him to use crutches, said during an interview on the war that he was convinced that Austria, after the lesson it had received, would wait for some time before resuming hostilities against Serbia. He pointed out also that the climatic and geographical conditions were against Austria at the present moment, and that it could not withdraw its forces from the eastern field of the war.

Prince George expressed the belief that the war would surely end in the triumph of the allies, but admitted that this would require enormous sacrifices, especially of men. Already the Serbian army had given a magnificent example of heroism, endurance and self-sacrifice.

The trouble originated through the ap-parently insane act of two Turks, who, conceiving it to be their duty to attack Britons because Great Britain was at war with Turkey, armed themselves with rifles and, in hiding along the state railway line, fired into a train of pic-nickers, killing four and wounding seven persons.

One of London's Oldest and Largest Sends 300 Men to the Front.

LONDON, February 4 .- One of London's oldest and largest department stores has 300 men in one regiment, the Queen's Westminsters, at the front. These men are officered by mem-departments of the store where they are employed. The founder of the firm, fifty-six years ago, in the first days of volunteering raised a company which the firm put into uniform and maintained at its own expense. This tradition has been continued ever since and the company maintained at the store has made an enviable record in the country's militia, taking many prizes by shooting and other military activities. Thirty-five members of the company served in the South African war and thirty-three, returning safely, resumed their work at the store.

Enough employes volunteered to fill the company four times over at the outbreak of the present war, and many unable to gain entrance into the regular store company have entered other regiments. Since the store company went to the front it has been engaged almost constantly in the fighting.
